DOING HIS DUTY BY HER

THE FLIGHT OF FALSE ONES ENDS

IN MARRIAGE.

Theft, Capture, a Happy Home United, Livorce, Wed. Oct. 11 in six weeks. The Lady's Husband Secures His Freedom—A Life in the West.

New York, Nov. 25.—The denouement of the elopement of Mrs. Alice Brannwell with her husband's friend, Chas. Graham, which created such a flutter in Flushing society, of which both were prominent members, six weeks ago, was furnished in the published announcement of the marriage of the eloping couple. Graham, who was a broker doing business on the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum exchange, on Thursday, October 1, received from the oil brokerage firm of Spencer, Trask & Co., a number of certificates to sell.

Graham lived with his father, who is one of the oldest and most respected residents of Flushing, and who has been a successful prospector. He was an active promoter of the interests of both Sunday school and church, regular in his habits, and a devoted Sunday school member. He was a member of the congregation of the St. George Episcopal church in Flushing, which also numbered Mrs. Brannwell in its fold.

Graham is also said to be a relation of Mr. Trask's wife, so when the day passed without a report, either from the bride or the groom, the firm thought nothing of it. Not having received an accounting nor seen Graham up to 3 o'clock, Spencer, Trask & Co., felt their confidence in the young man shaken, and inquired at the clearing department of the exchange elicited the fact that the certificates had been sold to Graham, and that he was a runaway, and a check for $3,000 to his order given in settlement. Hurrying to the bank given it was learned that the check had been presented by Graham, who received the money. Pinkerton's detective agency was called into the council and an inquiry was set on foot.

It was learned that Graham had that day boarded a train at the Grand Central depot in the way to Canada and that Mrs. Brannwell, who had left her husband's home in Flushing ostensibly to visit her father in his city, had accompanied him. H. G. Julian, a Pinkerton detective, was soon following along in the wake of the fugitives and caught up with them in Springfield, Mass., where they were arrested. Mrs. Brannwell was taken to the city of New York to await the morning train for Montreal. Julian traced them to the Massasoit house, where they registered as Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Jodwin, of Pittsburg.

When Graham approached the desk in the morning to settle his bill the detective accosted him. He once acknowledged his identity and surrendered the money, at the same time agreeing to return with the officer to New York. When Mrs. Brannwell learned of what Graham had done she took him severely to task for his weakness and urged him to continue their journey, finally promising to accompany him to any place he had promised. After seeing at a deadlock so as to bring him to this city was concerned, the detective served the warrant on Mr. C. P. Jodwin, to procure a warrant for Graham's arrest. Mrs. Brannwell meantime retaining another party to see that Graham was not carried back by force.

Both lawyers waited upon Justice Coppeland, one to plead for and the other against the issuance of the warrant. The justice decided that the statutes would not allow him to authorize the arrest. The lawyers followed the puzzled justice to his home, continuing their argument at the tea table, where they were reinforced by Julian, who, having Graham to be followed by a local policeman and telegraphing the attorneys of Spencer, Trask & Co., in this city, hurried off to reinforce his representative. The judge finally signed the desired document and the detective returned to secure his man. Upon reaching the hotel Graham could not be found and the justice walked out of the office, the policeman having no authority to detain him, and disappeared. Mrs. Brannwell had meantime waited quietly in the hotel.

The night train brought J. K. Brannwell, brother of the abandoned husband, who obtained an interview with the justice and induced her to leave the city with him. Mr. Nichols, representing Spencer, Trask & Co., was a passenger on the same train, and at once stopped all criminal proceedings against Graham, declaring that the firm was entirely satisfied at having recovered their money. Graham was discovered after a short search, and left for New Haven in company with Mr. Nichols. The story of the elopement was received by the family and friends of both parties in this city and Flushing. Mrs. Brannwell's real name was Alice Mackman, and she is the daughter of Mr. P. C. Mackman, a gentleman well known in Wall and New Streets. After her marriage to Mr. Arthur Brannwell, of the oil and gas business in Flushing, a young brother of prominence in the city on Broadway, Flushing, became a favorite visiting place for the best people of the place.

After the elopement the husband closed the house, removing with his little son to the residence of his father, and took immediate steps to procure a divorce. No defense being made, the divorce was granted. As soon as the decree was issued Graham and Mrs. Brannwell completed their arrangements for starting in a measure for their escape. Mrs. Brannwell had taken refuge at her father's home, and returned from Springfield, Mass., to her father's home, where she was met by her father, who is said, was taken to New Jersey. The preliminaries were arranged and they were soon married, the Rev. Dr. Farney performing the ceremony. The couple immediately left for the west, where, it is stated, they will henceforth make their home.

Society of a Lunatic.

FARMERSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 25.—Miss Isabella Brown, an inmate of the insane asylum, from the city of New York, hung herself in her apartment by forcing a rope from strips of bedding fastened to the transoms. She was twenty-three years of age, had been in the asylum twice before, and frequently attempted suicide in the past.

IN THE NORTHWEST.

An Uprising Among the Followers of Riel Only a Matter of Time.

BISMARCK, Dak., Nov. 25.—A Half-Breed hunter arrived from the Canadian Northwest and reports that an extremely warlike spirit exists among his countrymen in the Northwest Territory. No wonder did the news of Riel's execution reach the Indians and Half-Breed French that a movement was inaugurated to secure aid from an English Half-Breed, at one camp an effigy of Lord MacDonald was hanged before the enraged frontiersmen, who ridiculed it with bullets, and to shriek with knives and gathering the fragments, burned them to ashes.

The frontiersmen now here say do not believe that there will be any trouble during the winter months, but thinks the pent-up vengeance of the followers of Riel will break out in the spring and create havoc among the frontier settlers who are considered unfriendly. He states that the great need of the Half-Breeds in the execution of their plans is a leader to take the place of Riel, and many of them pray for the return of Gabriel Dumont, who exhibited so much bravery and pluck during the late fighting, but left after the surrender of Riel, and is now in Montana.

The Boy Traveler.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—McDonnell Foster, a runaway boy from Chicago, who was arrested here for robbing a woman and placed in the Home of the Boys and Girls Aid Society, has again asserted his right to be known as the young American traveler. He ran away from the home, and was not heard from again until he was brought into the county jail at San Francisco. A couple had found him on San Pablo avenue. Sheriff Hale received an intimation from the aid society that the boy was not wanted at the home, and that Riel was now here he was trying to steal his way on board of a China steamer. The authorities of Alameda county, who had been notified of his custody, are at a loss what to do with him.

A Half-Breed's Vision.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 25.—A correspondent of the Pioneer Press at Brandon, Northwest territory, sends a surprising story. Its truth is not vouched for by the Pioneer. "Since the hanging of Riel rumors of every conceivable shape have been afloat, popular among the Half-Breeds, and in person on the north bank of the Saskatchewan on Wednesday in company with a person answering the description of Gabriel Dumont and there a city of a few miles, told him that he was in New York, and that that he was paid the penalty on November 1, 1885, and that he was now in the prison of one of the condemned prisoners at the Regina jail."

Galveston Relief.

GALVESTON, Nov. 25.—Subscriptions to the relief fund for the fire sufferers have reached $105,000. The committee has furnished relief to 840 applicants, the majority of whom are heads of families. The work of the committee is being carried on as fast as possible. Among the subscriptions received was one of $25 from Charles F. Kollege & Company, Chicago, making $400,000. A singing society in San Antonio has remitted $100, Fulton, Catting, N. Y., $300, and the Charleston cotton exchange, $300.

Fathless Kate Facts.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., Nov. 25.—A railroad employee, married Kate Faith in Freeport two weeks ago, taking her from a hotel where she was employed as a waitress. She reached this city and reported. When he was taking a nap in a hotel his face was covered with a handkerchief saturated with kerosene. When he awoke he found his wallet containing $24 and was told that his wife and a stranger man had taken the $400 train south. He has been in the city for twenty-four hours. They started out with $400 to spend on the trip.

A Deluge of Water.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Owing to the continuation of the great storm the restaurants and stores along West and South streets are flooded with one and a half feet of water over the doors. The piers are under water and the damage cannot be estimated. The Hoboken, Jersey City and Staten Island piers are also submerged. All Pacifica ferries are at a standstill, owing to the great depth of water over the Erie docks, and vehicles cannot be transported.

That Hippodrome.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—By reason of not being able to secure a suitable hall, it was decided by Vignuzzi, Schneider and Wilson not to play off the tie and the proceeds of the tournament will be equally divided between the three players. Each will receive about $1,500. The three experts have in view a trip through the south for the purpose of playing exhibition games at St. Louis, New Orleans and other points.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 25.—Judge Wallace, of the United States circuit court, granted an unconditional preliminary injunction in favor of Glim P. Filmy, of St. Louis, restraining the Little Rock and Memphis from making the triple oven drive, which is held to be an infringement on Filmy's patent.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—Governor-elect Foraker, of Ohio, has appointed Col. Axel

WASHINGTON BUDGET.

THE SILVER EXTREMISTS PRESSING

FOR A BOND CALL.

Details of Proposed Changes in the Rules of the House—Various Bills and Committees—Weeding Out and Making Room—National News Notes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—A considerable force of silver extremists are strongly and persistently urging the president and secretary of the treasury to call bonds and redeem them with the Bland dollars which have accumulated in the treasury. They are quietly assisted by influential Wall street speculators, who, for their own purposes, would like to see this done.

It can be confidently said that this pressure is of no avail. There will be no call of bonds until congress has met and has to act in the spring and next April, and the administration will wait for the instructions of congress before paying the debt in silver. If the silver extremists wait their policy carried out they will have to get congress to order it. A bill ordering the president to use the seventy-five millions of Bland dollars will be introduced by congress to pay off the bonds would cause an interesting debate in congress. Among the changes in the rules of the house which are proposed are to restore the former morning hour in such a way that bills reported may have immediate consideration, and to abolish the present rule requiring unanimous consent to take up a bill, or a two-thirds vote in other cases. What is to be done to open the door to debate by limiting the operation of the previous question is uncertain.

As to the proposed distribution of appropriations bills, it is understood that the Army and postoffice bills to separate committees, leaving the remainder of the appropriation bills, to the appropriation committee as heretofore. But Mr. Springer, who is paying attention to this matter, hopes to persuade the house to consolidate several committees and to abolish some others. Under the plan which he has in hand seven general and eight special committees, would be reduced to four, four new committees will be created. The banking and currency and the coinage, weights and measures committee is proposed to be consolidated into one, to be called the commerce and manufactures committee. Two special committees are to be extinguished, and one—a committee on the executive branch, is to be charged with the consideration of the election of president and vice president, the counting of the electoral votes, the nomination to the presidential office, the composition of federal officers and the condition of the civil service. The two committees on railroads and canals and waterways are to be consolidated. The eight standing committees on expenditures in the executive departments are to be consolidated into one, to be called the committee on expenditures. The military committee is to report the army and the military academy bills, the postoffice and mail bills, and the academy bills, and the postoffice committee is to be charged with the post office bills.

This is the present plan. It remains to be seen what the house will think of it. But the consolidation of committees is undoubtedly necessary. The multiplication of committees has become a serious nuisance and serious obstruction to necessary business. Many of the present committees were created mainly to give to their chairman a private room and a clerk, and they are too numerous that the Capitol can no longer hold them all. Under Mr. Springer's plan the number of committees will be reduced to the public business be facilitated thereby.

The Valiente, the organ of the Mexican war, says that survivors of the Mexican war may now safely forward their applications for service pension according to the terms transmitted by the secretary of the Mexican Veterans' National association. This action, it is said, will expedite the settlement of claims, when the service pension bill shall have become a law, and is expected that this will take place during the approaching session of congress.

When the act of March 3, 1875, for the benefit of the veterans of 1812 was passed a provision was incorporated in the bill making valuations of all applications for a pension in the pension office and there were over thirteen thousand cases which had been filed in anticipation of the passage of that act. Arrangements have been made by the pension bureau to receive the applications in packages of fifty or more cases at a time and the secretary of the association is under the understanding that the applications are not to be held as "valid claims" under the provisions of any law that may be passed hereafter, until the law contains the provision making such applications valid.

AN OIL FIRE.

Narrow Escape From Suffocation—An Old Man Injured.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—A fire broke out on No. 118 Malien lane, caused by a sudden explosion of oil in a room which was occupied by J. W. Wheelock & Co., light oil dealers. Three men in the office had narrow escapes from suffocation. Pedro Rodriguez, a cigar manufacturer, aged sixty years, occupied the fourth floor and narrowly escaped death from the dense smoke. He succeeded in gaining a ladder and descending through the scuttle of an adjoining building fell, injuring himself seriously. He was taken to Chambers street hospital.

The loss on building and stock is about $6,000; no insurance on the oil. Wheelock & Company are the owners of the Detroit Gas Machine company. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Wrestling Match.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—The wrestling match between Schmidt, the German wrestler, and James Faulkner at Worthington's hall was exciting. Schmidt weighs 170 pounds and Faulkner 185, but the latter downed his opponent in two or three bouts. The first was catch-as-catch-can and the second Greco Roman. An enthusiastic crowd on gazed the sport.

FALSE REPORTS.

The Millers' Association, of Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 25.—The Millers' association met to consider the charges made from time to time in the news and editorial columns of the Chicago Tribune, that the association had conspired to break the wheat market in Chicago. The various charges made by the paper were carefully considered, and it was finally resolved to demand at once, by telegraph, of the Tribune the sources of information and an editorial retraction.

It was decided if full reparation is not made to begin suit against the Tribune for damages. The Millers claim that the Tribune's assertions are gained by a clique of Chicago operators who find themselves loaded with high priced wheat, and who have had agents throughout the northwest for six weeks past manufacturing news to help the clique in its manipulations.

Some millers claim to have direct proof of the falsification of the elevator reports of the amount stored at different points in Minnesota and Dakota; also of receipts and shipments at points not covered by the press.

DAMNABLE DEEDS.

A Stepmother's Outrageous Treatment

of a Little Child.

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 25.—"Hang her! Tar and feather the old hag!" shouted a crowd of three hundred as they raved down to the jail after a woman named Mrs. D. She was a woman heretofore respectable and received in church circles. A few days ago she stripped her three-year-old stepdaughter, covered her with soft soap and scrubbed her with a home brew and cold water. She afterward whipped her frightfully with a leather strap.

For telling of these cruelties Mrs. Duplaul sent scrub out on the poor child's mouth with soft soap. The child showed several deep scars caused by the cruellest stepmother battering the girl's head against the wall. Mrs. Duplaul was convicted of cruelty and sentenced to the jail for six months. She was taken to jail, and the officers had all they could do to keep the crowd from tearing and festering her. Her husband is a cousin to the late Charlotte Cushman, the famous actress.

COTTON FIRE.

Galveston's Big Cargo in Flames at Key

West, Florida.

GALVESTON, Nov. 25.—The steamer No. Grande, which sailed from this port to Liverpool, carrying 8,000 bales of cotton. This is the largest cargo of cotton ever shipped from Galveston.

On Fire.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 25.—The steamer No. Grande, from Galveston, has arrived here with a fire in her forward compartment lower hold on fire. The compartment in which the burning cotton is stowed is being flooded by means of steam pumps and fire engines.

The deck and sides of the steamer are showing the effects of the heat. The cotton has settled by the stern several feet. The situation is not assuring.

Witchery in Wisconsin.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 25.—Mary Herrell, of Watertown, Wis., has had a complaint against a neighbor for attempting to kill her by sorcery, and the detestable has been held for trial. The complaint claims in all sincerity that the woman is a witch and attributes the bog cholera prevailing in that vicinity to her animosity. Two years ago she was in the city of St. Paul, Wis., in a neighboring county. The people thought that their bad crops and diseases among the cattle were caused by her incantations, and they attempted her life.

A Heilich Negro.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 25.—James Bralley, a young colored man employed as Marquet's evening saloon, was given a hearing at the Court station, and was ordered to be committed to a notorious assault on Ellen Gallagher, ten years old, residing at No. 1108 Market street. The chief reason for the commitment was that he had previously acknowledged the assault. He was committed without bail to answer at court.

Snacklet Time.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Eight thousand barrels of lime and cement, on a tug river, between the hundred and eighth and One hundred and fourteenth streets, owned by Jan. Bell & Son, were destroyed by the action of the gale. The main and masts were carried away. The ship is in fair condition to be gotten off.

Warner and Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—John C. Work became bankrupt. He has a net worth of $200,000. James A. Work in the sum of $30,000 each, before Judge Brown, in the United States circuit court. The accused came of their own volition to the court, having received official information of their indictment. Therefore the bench warrants were not served.

The Dead Tragedian.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—The family of John McCullough has decided to allow the theatrical profession to select a final resting place for the remains of the great actor. His wife desires the body to be buried in this city, however. A magnificent monument will be erected to his memory by contributions from his former associates.

Wouldn't Live Without His Wife.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 25.—A special to the Terre Haute Express says: "Winley Keller, a young grocery clerk of this city, had been to shoot his wife, whom he was persuading to again live with him, and she escaping, he put a bullet through his heart."

The Southern Progress.

It is interesting to note the progress of the Southern States in all that makes nations great. Concerning the degree of this progress and the extent of its ultimate success there is difference of opinion. All must however agree that there has been a decided growth and development of latent resources.

The railways are a kind of barometers by which the condition of industrial interests may be judged. It is certain that at no time during the last ten years have the earnings of these Southern lines been more satisfactory than now, in spite of the depression that has prevailed.

The reason is that the manufacturing establishments are more numerous and the iron and coal mines are being worked to a greater extent. The tourist business is larger, and so is trade in early vegetables and fruits for the Northern markets. There has also been some growth in population, and correspondingly in the local business. This increase in the prosperity of the railways becomes more noticeable when we consider the larger mileage and the greater competition.

The process of consolidation of the small roads into large systems has also been beneficial, for the little companies were poor, as a rule, and unable to command the funds required to put their properties into proper condition. Now, as there are fewer companies, the channels of traffic are better defined and the facilities much greater for the handling of all kinds of business. The change of gauge, partially completed, is to be of immense benefit to the Southern lines.

We think that another of the most encouraging indications is the division of the land into smaller holdings and the more diversified agriculture. In former times, and to a considerable extent even at the present, the planters seem to care only for cotton, content to buy their food from other places. They are beginning now to raise their own meats, as well as corn and wheat, this being especially the case in Georgia and Alabama. The inclination to go into the business of growing fruit and vegetables is an excellent sign.

The South ought not to buy any corn meat from the North unless it does so for its large manufacturing towns. In the interior all the corn and meats ought to be of local production. Any other course is sure to incline towards dependency and poverty.

As the Southern States increase the variety and extent of their manufacture; as the number of small land-holders become larger also; as the planters come to understand and prefer a diversified agriculture, so sure will be wealth and population grow and new railways be built.

These desirable channels may be of slow progress, but they are sure. The companies which have faith and are willing to wait a little time for their return will reap an adequate reward for their foresight and judgment.—(Railway Register.)

The Big Sandy News of Louisa, Lawrence County, in alluding to Judge Wall's candidacy for Congress in this district says:

"In this issue of the News we announce the Hon. Garrett S. Wall, of Mason County, as a candidate to represent this district in the next Congress of the United States, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention. The writer of this furnace, one hundred and sixty glory-holes, fifteen oil refineries, four hundred dwellings and a number of smaller furnaces. If it should come into general use, as there is a strong probability that it will, Pittsburg would soon lose the reputation it has long enjoyed of being the dirtiest and blackest city in the country.

This total receipts from Internal Revenue taxation for the last fiscal year amounted to $112,421,122 and for the year preceding $121,500,039. Illinois paid the largest tax, the amount being $23,075,565. Kentucky comes next on the list having paid $14,842,476. The smallest collections were reported from Vermont which paid in but $29,890.

Big buttons in groups of three appear on many stylish rough goods costumes.

SHOE CUTTERS' STRIKE.

Receive Support of Bootmakers, Finishers and Stock Cutters.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—At the meeting held by the executive committee of the different assemblies the following was adopted: "We, the undersigned, representatives of the various assemblies, do most emphatically deny the claim made by the Shoe Manufacturers' association that on the 15th of October, when our code of shop rules were adopted, that we assented or voted that our present rate of wages, now existing in our various branches, should hold good until May 1."

"PETER J. DUFFY, Chairman Ex. Com. Shoe Bottomers' union, No. 1439."

"Wm. J. ROBINSON, Chairman Ex. Com. Shoe Cutters' union, No. 1901."

"JOHN SHERIDAN, Chairman Ex. Com. Stock Finishers' union, No. 1579."

"CHARLES ECKERT, Chairman Ex. Com. Stock Cutters' union, No. 1578."

November 25, 1885.

The claim of Mr. Blacker that they violated a rule in going out while a grievance was pending, was denied by them. They say that the manufacturers' assembly refused to consider the bill of wages when it was brought before them, consequently it could not be pending. There are, at the highest estimate, one hundred and seventy-five shoe cutters in the city, forty-five of whom are working in the shops. They have signed the bill, thus leaving about one hundred and thirty men on the strike. It is stated that the latests, as a body, do not oppose the strike, and that the trouble between them and the rest of the trade will soon be amicably adjusted.

CATTLE MEN'S CONVENTION.

An Expert in the Business as Valuable as Five Legs on a Mule.

St. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 25.—The cattle men's convention was called to order, Ex-Governor Reuter, of Colorado, in the chair. Several invitations of a hospitable nature were accepted. A communication from Homer D. Smith, president of the National Cattle Raisers' association, which at their annual meeting in Chicago lately, appointed a committee of conference to meet a similar committee from this convention. Mr. Smith stated that this committee cannot accept the invitation extended to them to visit the present convention for the purpose of exchanging plans for a consolidation of the two societies, but suggests the propriety of the two committees meeting hereafter, believing that they may reach at least a harmonious understanding. Hon. Elmer D. Washburn, and Mr. Coy, of the Live Stock exchange, Chicago, in addition to the position of the Chicago Live Stock exchange upon the animal industry, severely denounced the "expert" and veterinarians, whose imaginations were the most violent factors in producing the pleuro-pneumonia last summer, which cost the stock growers of the country thousands, simply that the "experts" should all have jobs and fees. "An expert," said he "in the cattle business is as useless as a fifth leg upon a street-car mule." Mr. Cunningham, of Texas, addressed the convention upon "Cattle Industry in Texas," which subject he handled very ably, claiming that the Texas fever would be rooted of all its terrors when it became thoroughly understood.
